BySoft Work Center Terminal

After cutting and bending, control the rest of your manufacturing processes from a single point and connect to the smart factory software ecosystem.

BySoft Workcenter Terminal receives all the instructions and information, regarding the parts to be processed in other manufacturing work centers, such as drilling, painting, welding, assembling, packaging... It enables you to input the time consumed for processing a job, as well as to register the number and quality of produced parts.

Your benefits

01

Easy to use
Guarantees the operator's user experience with a simple and intuitive interface. The system provides all the information necessary for efficient work (documentation, plans, drawings, instructions...).

02

Reduce the use of paper
Transferre digitaly all the necessary information for the operator, as well as any data reported from technical office. Avoid the need of paper at the workshop.

03

Gain control over the whole production
BySoft Work Center Terminal, combined with BySoft Shop Floor, give you the control and trazability over the entire production. Considering all the production steps within the workshop..
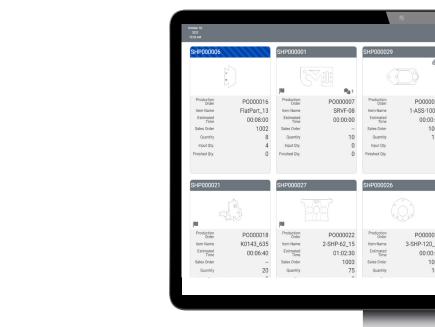

Your features

Communicate with the smart factory ecosystem

Establish communication with the rest of the smart factory systems. Collect and assign workload to report all the available information of each work center (i.e. drilling, painting...). Enable the rest of the systems access the status, establish actions, and get information of what had happened..

Information at a glance

Set the priority of pending works or open the part/assembly drawing to be manufactured and go through the manual process instructions..

Manual data input

Introduce additional information related to the resulting quality of the manufactured parts, the reason of lost parts, or extra time of the process, as well as information that the operator needs to send to the workshop technical office.

Consider upcoming production steps

BySoft Work Center Terminal shows not only data related to the ongoing process, but also show information related to next production steps to allow the operator to understand and make the best decisions.
